

1. First, please describe how to perform the exploration and the empirical research in the field of information science? Secondly, describe how to perform the empirical research and exploratory research in the field of management research? What are the differences between the two? (15%)
2. Please describe in detail the theory development process of the Technology Acceptance Model (TAM) which is derived from the Theory of Rational Action (TRA). (10%)
3. If we want to introduce the creative teaching methods into the information management MIS Course, please design an experimental teaching research project to examine the merits of the new method and the traditional method of teaching. (15%)
4. In the field of Information Management, what are the differences between case studies and qualitative research? Please give an example to illustrate them. (10%)
5. Please identify important research methodologies in the attached paper. Given reasons why they could be used and biased. Illustrate the appropriate improvements. Please address your comments as follows.
 - a. in "The Delphi Study" section (10%)
 - b. in "Measurement Model Development" section (20%)
 - c. in "Results" section (20%)